Descripción del producto

Multiple base, with both individual and general switch. In white, this 6 socket power strip is super safe and practical. It has an individual switch for each female socket and also a general switch that turns off the whole power strip. These switches are illuminated in red, so you will always know when they are on or off. The power strip has a 250V power supply, side earthing and a current of 16A. With surge and overload protection. The 1.5 metre cable is perfect for the office! It will help you save money, plus its design gives you extra protection for children/pets by preventing accidental power surges.
